The art-history program at Georgia State University seeks a specialist in Renaissance and Baroque Art to fill a three-quarter-time*, limited-term position at the rank of Visiting Lecturer, beginning in August, 2018.

College-level teaching experience is required. Preference will be given to candidates with PhDs, but ABDs will be considered.

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and the contact information for three recommenders. Send application materials in a single PDF to WSADrecruiting@gsu.edu.

Review of applications will begin June 15, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

The Ernest G. Welch School of Art and Design is a team of vibrant, creative professionals that includes 30+ full-time faculty in art, design, and art history serving over 1000 art & design majors across nine separate disciplines.

Georgia States University’s College of the Arts, is a new academic unit that focuses on education in the arts and related media, promotes creativity and responds to the changing needs of artists, on-and off-campus. The college was established in 2016 and also includes the School of Film, Media & Theatre, the School of Music, the Center for Collaborative & International Arts (CENCIA), and the Center for Educational Partnerships in Music. In addition to offering some of the university’s most popular majors, the college connects faculty and students with Atlanta’s thriving arts scene and booming film and music industries.

Georgia State University is a national leader in using innovation to drive student success and research growth. The university provides its world-class faculty and more than 50,000 students unsurpassed research, teaching, and learning opportunities in one of the 21st century’s great global cities. In 2017, U.S. News & World Report ranked Georgia State as #4 in Most Innovative Schools, #8 in Best Undergraduate Teaching, and #11 in Campus Ethnic Diversity among national universities.

*Three-quarter-time positions have teaching loads of three courses per semester. For this position, the courses taught would be a mix of large survey lectures, smaller lecture courses on narrower topics, and upper-level seminars.

Limited-Term faculty positions are defined as faculty positions of one academic year duration. Appointments may be renewable for up to two years of full-time employment and include benefits.

This position is contingent upon budgetary approval and may offer the possibility of Summer 2019 employment with benefits. An offer of employment will be conditional upon background verification.

Georgia State University is a Research University of the University System of Georgia and an EEO/AAA institution that values the diversity of its faculty, staff and student body.